40

Ideology of Conservatism: Roots

EDMUND BURKE

2. British author and politician
3. Author of – Reflections on the Revolution in France = condemned the Fr. Rev.
4. Organic conception of society – only natural and organic change is healthy

42

Edmund Burke

Society is, indeed, a contract. It is a partnership in all science, a partnership in all art, a partnership in every virtue and in all perfection. As the ends of such a partnership cannot be obtained in many generations, it becomes a partnership not only between those who are living, but between those who are living, those who are dead, and those who are to be born. Each contract of each particular state is but a clause in the great primeval contract of eternal society, linking the lower with the higher natures, connecting the visible with the invisible world, according to a fixed compact sanctioned by the inviolable oath which holds all physical and moral natures, each in their appointed place.

43

JOSEPH DE MAISTRE

1. Continental conservative political philosopher
2. More extreme conservatism = all change is bad
3. REACTIONARY = someone who wants to go backwards/no change or progress of any kind

- Revolution is BAD -SUDDEN OR RADICAL CHANGE IS BAD
- Representative government/civil liberties are unnecessary
- Nationalism is evil
- Community over individual rights
- Order is best, and TRADITION creates order =THE OLD WAY IS THE BEST WAY
- CHANGE SHOULD BE GRADUAL AND NATURAL
- CULTURAL AND POLITICAL CONTINUITY

51

54

Blame

- The revolutionary zeal of the French was blamed on enlightened ideals such as equality, constitutionalism, and national pride
- Those who upheld these ideals were called 'liberals'
- Thus, liberalism was born

55

COLLECTIVE SECURITY
